Town engineer retires

by Arlene Surprenant
Robert Higgins has retired from his position as Wilmington's long-time town engineer. According to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, Higgins' last day of work was Friday, October 31.

Though there was no reason given in his letter of resignation for leaving the position, Stapczynski said Higgins stated he was planning to move out of the state.

"He gave 12 1/2 years of service to the town. I thank him for that," said Stapczynski, adding that "I wish him well in his retirement and future endeavors."

In recent months, Higgins had suffered some criticism from homeowners in the Middlesex Pines subdivision as well as from members of the planning board and the board of selectmen. Higgins had continually sought extra help to handle an increasing workload due to a building surge in town.

Stapczynski told the Town Crier he had no one in mind to fill

Higgins' shoes at this time. He said he would seek a temporary replacement for a three month period and use the interim "as an opportunity to study the engineer's function" and "make sure we move in the right direction in the future."

Try again on teachers' bargaining

Representatives of the Wilmington School Committee and the Wilmington Teachers' Association (WTA) bargaining team will meet once again to try to reach an agreement on the teachers' contract for the 1986-87 school year. Teachers have been without a contract since the beginning of the school year.

According to WTA President Mathew Joyce, Elliot Klitzman has been appointed by the State Labor Relations Board to mediate the sessions beginning Wednesday, November 5 at 5 p.m. At issue is salary and contract language.

"I think both sides are hoping it's going to be productive; no one wants to be at loggerheads," Joyce told the Town Crier.

Joyce expects some more dates will be set for future negotiations at Wednesday's meeting.

Housing Task Force 'switches tracks'

by Arlene Surprenant

Further debate and additional information on the lack of low income housing in Wilmington prompted the Affordable Housing Task Force to "switch tracks" and pursue options other than a bylaw at their meeting Thursday night.

Previously, the group seemed to go with an inclusionary housing bylaw. The draft bylaw would allow increased density in new subdivisions if the builder would agree to set aside 20 percent of the units for low to moderate income families. This bylaw would help Wilmington meet state housing requirements.

Though they didn't rule out a bylaw approach, members last Thursday moved in a new direction. After hearing from Planning Coordinator Sandra Murphy that there are a total of 743 town owned lots, approximately 400 of which are tax title and foreclosure properties, members explored ways to utilize some of them for low cost homes. Jay Tighe, founder of the Builder's Association, agreed this was "the answer," an answer which would cost the town nothing, he said.

Members leaned toward a suggestion to sell some of the larger parcels to developers, perhaps to be used for multi-family dwellings built to town specifications. This would create a rotating housing fund which could be used to place affordable modular homes on smaller parcels scattered throughout town.

By using town resources and putting everything in the hands of a non-profit corporation, members felt they could achieve better control. They also felt the town wouldn't then be bound by state guidelines or new tenant regulations, which would allow out-of-towners to take preference over local residents. They agreed they could use the draft bylaw as a policy guideline.

If they pursue this suggestion, however, nothing could be done until the moratorium on town owned land is lifted in 1988.

In an update on a recent housing conference, Planning Board Chairman Carole Hamilton explained that conference members favored the comprehensive permit route and negotiation with builders on a case by case basis over a bylaw approach to the affordable housing crunch. She added that, either way, something has to be done soon as the town is wide open to developers coming in with comprehensive permits.

In an effort to force members to make "reasonable" use of whatever land remains in town, Attorney Joseph Courtney suggested rezoning of the larger R60 parcels to smaller lots. He said, in his estimation, there are only a maximum of 400 buildable, residential lots left in Wilmington and the task force should look at diversity and best utilization of that land.

"I'm not about to stand by and see R60 (zones) get changed in a wholesale slaughter," said member Vaughn Surprenant, adding that his group is also looking at other approaches like converting town buildings and using industrial land.

"We know we can't do this overnight. This is a long term project," explained Surprenant as chairman Jim Stewart added they have to make any new bylaw attractive to residents and builders alike.

Lillian Buckley, executive director of the housing authority, questioned whether it was wise to pursue single family homes on scattered sites. She pointed out that, in her experience, builders often run into strict septic system regulations and this approach involves "a lot of work, man hours, and delays."

Task Force member Dan Gilis sought board approval to move a house slated for demolition to Parker Street and use that for affordable housing.

"We could talk affordable housing for around $75,000," he said, though fellow members feared the hidden costs and "headaches" of such a move as well as leaving the home open to vandals through the winter.

75th birthday

It was the 75th birthday, Sunday, for the United Methodist Church of Tewksbury. Bishop George Bashore preached the anniversary sermon. Bishop Bashore is the presiding bishop of the Boston area, which includes all of New England.

Church celebrates 75th anniversary

During the past week the Tewksbury United Methodist Church has been celebrating its 75th birthday.

Last Saturday there was a dinner at the Sons of Italy Hall in North Wilmington, with about 125 persons present. The speaker of the evening was Bishop Jack M. Tuell of Los Angeles. Bishop Tuell was the pastor of the Tewksbury church for three years, 1952-55.

The church was formally organized on Nov. 5, 1911, and in 1912 the first minister, the Rev. Lester A. Jones, was appointed. Before that the church had been served by Raymond A. Withey and B.R. Van Dyke.

The early services were held in the homes of members of the parish. Many of the early ministers were the appointed pastors of the Wilmington Methodist Church.

A building committee was organized in 1914 and fund raising for the church began. The Ladies Aid Society was formed in 1915. The ladies were soon spearheading the raising of funds.

Construction of the first church building, at the corner of South Street and Brown Street began in 1914, but the building was not completed for more than a year. The building was dedicated by District Superintendent William H. Powell on May 4, 1916. Since then there have been alterations and enlargements, and there was a service of re-dedication in December 1925. Bishop William F. Anderson was present for the occasion.

The growth continued during the depression years. The church building was doubled in size, and on Good Friday 1942 there was a dedication service for the new sanctuary.

The fortieth anniversary service in 1951 was just as the area was being impacted by the suburban building boom. An addition to the building was proposed. Just before construction was to begin the plans were changed.

The church acquired the property at the corner of Main Street and South Street, where stood the old Foster House, dating back to 1721. The area was known as Foster's Corner.

Efforts were made to incorporate the old house into the plans for church use, but the building was finally razed. A new church building was planned, designed by Arland A. Dirlam.

The cornerstone of the new building was installed on December 18, 1959. District Superintendent Willard C. Arnold was present.

The final service in the old building was on March 27, 1960. The first service in the new building was one week later, on April 3, 1960. Bishop John Wesley Lord and Dr. Arnold participated in the consecration.

The 50th anniversary, in 1961, saw further growth of the church. The lower hall of the new building was divided into classrooms to accommodate the growing number (col. 4)

Next, with a Roman collar, is Fr. George Croft, OMI of St. William's; Mrs. Herbert Stotts, Dr. Herbert Stotts (Ret) of Boston University; the Rev. of children and youth. The population of the town began to peak in the 1970s, and the membership of the church and the church school began to stabilize.

The "Burning of the Mortgage" was celebrated on April 2, 1978. Bishop Edward G. Carroll was present on that occasion, which left the church debt free.

Since that date there have been a number of energy conservation improvements. Ceiling fans, fluorescent lighting and a more efficient furnace resulted from a conscious effort of good stewardship. In 1983 a new and larger parsonage was bought on Pinnacle Street, and the old parsonage was sold.

In 1968 the United Methodist Church resulted from a merger of the Evangelical United Brethren Church and the Methodist Church. (col. 5)

Old timers

The ladies

Carolyn Bashore (left) and Marjorie Tuell (right) stand near the 1911 Hamblett at Oakdale Mall. With them are Dorothy Peters, now of New Hampshire, and Elsie Howell.

Today the church in Tewksbury is known as the Tewksbury United Methodist Church.

As the 75th anniversary is being celebrated the church shows signs of health and future growth. Membership and attendance are on the increase, as are infant baptisms and giving to missions. The facility is being used to capacity.

The church was started as a "community" church, to serve the residents of South Tewksbury. It is now a town wide church, which also serves neighboring towns as well.

The church which began 75 years ago can now look forward to its 100th birthday, confident that its vitality will endure to that year and beyond.

It's YOUR Money

by Joyce Brisbois
Certified Public Accountant

SHOULD YOU DEFER EARNINGS?

In the recent past, many executives chose to "defer compensation" -- less money now, more money after retirement when, it was assumed, they would be in a lower tax bracket. Does it still make sense, given the new, lower tax rates which may or may not continue?

The main advantage is that the deferred compensation earns interest on the entire pre-tax amount; many companies pay as much as 10 to 12 percent interest on that money. It won't be as beneficial at lower tax rates, but the executive still gets to invest more that way.

However, the new law does limit how much a company can pay from a funded pension plan to an employee who retires before 65. Many companies will get around this by paying out of unfunded pension plans, but this money is chancier; it's not guaranteed by the government and is subject to mergers, acquisitions and bankruptcies. Stock options don't look for so good if capital gains lose their tax preferential treatment. Look for changes there.

Wilmington Housing Authority reviews two low-cost proposals

by Arlene Surprenant

Now that the town is looking more closely at low cost housing options, the Wilmington Housing Authority is being asked to back proposals addressing the issue. Two such proposals were reviewed by members Monday night.

One proposal, brought up by landowner Lester Chisholm of Hopkins Street, asked members to support a rezoning article as well as his application to the state's Homeownership Opportunity Program. This program would set aside 25 percent of new or converted homes for first time homeowners in the moderate income bracket. These homes would sell for $86,000 or less.

A second proposal by developer Robert McSweeney of Adgis Trust sought board approval to administer and subsidize, through a state or federal program, three homes he would build on scattered sites. According to the proposal, the housing authority would master lease the homes for a 10 year period, after which they could be turned back to the developer. During the 10 year period, they could be rented to families having low to moderate incomes.

In both cases, WHA members had reservations and asked for more detailed information before continuing discussion at their November 17 meeting.

Chisholm said he is sponsoring a special town meeting article to rezone 38 acres of his land from R60 to R20. He told board members if the article passes, he will be able to build 42 homes rather than the 22 allowed under current zoning. Access in and out of the property would have to be through Reed Street and Third Avenue, which is already a paper street, he added.

Under the state program, 25 percent of the 42 homes could be sold to first time homebuyers with incomes between $18,000 and $27,000 a year. Affordability would be preserved over the long term by deed restriction.

Though Chisholm said he was interested in building single family homes, under program guidelines "structures can be single dwelling units, either attached or detached, and can include condominiums." Also, because it's a state program, the guidelines state "communities can establish local preference as long as this preference is within the context of an affirmative fair marketing program (in the greater Boston area)."

Communities expressing an interest in the Homeownership program are expected to offer incentives such as increasing density and waiving local fees to reduce development costs and facilitate development.

Though WHA members listened attentively, they were unsure what role their board would play and suggested Chisholm go to the Affordable Housing Task Force. They explained they couldn't make a decision unless he showed them a site plan with houselots, something he said he wasn't prepared to do before town meeting.

"The problem I have is if I go before the town, this town doesn't want to rezone anything," said Chisholm.

Dan Gillis was opposed to changing the zoning to increase density saying, at one point, "everyone says chop up our zoning, but it's the most valuable thing we've got."

Chisholm replied that "zoning is wasting land" and went on to add that allowing one and a half acre zones is "ridiculous." In answer to chairman Kevin McMillen, Chisholm said pursuing the Homeownership program with an R60 zone would be "impossible."

Attorney Russell Dunning told the board his client Robert McSweeney is in the process of buying 16 lots from Joe Woods. Ten of those lots were combined into five lots, each having 5,000 square feet. The last lot contains 18,000 square feet. The lots, he explained, are located on Faulkner, St. Paul, Jacobs, and Allston Street and are all on sewer.

McSweeney originally applied for a building permit but was turned down because the lots don't meet zoning requirements. Now he has applied to the board of appeals for a variance on lot sizes and he needs the housing authority's support once a date is set. In return, three of the homes would be turned over to the board for affordable homes.

WHA members said they could administer the homes under the state's 707 program or Section Eight. They were concerned however, with the density resulting from building six homes on 43,000 square feet, which Executive Director Lillian Buckley pointed out "isn't even an acre." A very few 5,000 square foot lots do qualify as they are grandfathered in, Buckley added later.

Bill Strob questioned what happens to the occupant after 10 years. He was told that sometimes the renter can purchase the home at below fair market value.

Joe Woods told the board he loves Wilmington and wouldn't "do anything to harm the town," adding that he felt McSweeney was a "reputable" man.

Board members asked McSweeney to bring an assessor's map and a photograph of a home he built in Medford to their next meeting to help them with their decision.

Family affair

Halloween was a family affair for the Finns. Lois and Howie Finn and their children Laura and Dan all dressed up for the Horribles Parade.

The impressive Rev. Stead Thornton

One of the early pastors of the Tewksbury Methodist Church was the Rev. Stead Thornton, pastor of the Wilmington Methodist Church. The Rev. Mr. Thornton and his family lived in a home which still exists, beside the Wilmington church. It had been given to the Wilmington parish by Alice Roberts, wife of Fred H. Roberts, candy manufacturer.

Stead Thornton had an impressive stance, while in the pulpit. In addition to his erudition as a clergyman, the fact that he used a British Midlands accent helped to impress his personality on any one seated in the church.

A second point existed too, possibly a point which was not noticed by any but small boys.

Stead Thornton, when he really was delivering a message, would lower the eyelid of his left eye. It did not close down completely, just half way or so.

To a small boy, in the mid 1920s, that lowered eyelid was almost the same thing as one saw in the Saturday afternoon movies, as two cowboys, arms just above their guns, faced each other and dare the other to draw.

Only the Rev. Mr. Thornton didn't have any guns.

A secret weapon

Leonard F. Colpitts of Ballardvale, at the wheel of his secret weapon, a 1911 Hamblett, the only Hamblett ever built. Leonard spent 17 years in rebuilding the unique automobile, and while he was at it, he put in a self-starter, so he would not have to crank the 1911 motor by hand. Where is the self starter? That's a secret!

Too many air pumps have gone the way of this gas pump.

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

With the trivial matter of an election behind us now, the community can finally focus its thoughts on much more important matters. Take the growing controversy surrounding the critical shortage of air pumps at local gas stations.

An air pump is not that obtrusive a device. I remember it usually located to the side, white in color, with a gauge you would set according to the needs of your particular type of tire. But apparently there is a shortage of air, since these pumps are now nowhere to be found -- and I do mean nowhere to be found.

Last week I was about to leave for a long trip to the Cape. Having seen enough public safety commercials lately to have been brainwashed, I proceeded to the nearest gas station to check the oil, and fill up a tire that was a bit on the low side. This is where my troubles began. The oil bit wasn't all that difficult, though most gas stations don't seem to deliver it with the same type of cheer as in the good old days. Then came the tires. No air pump was to be found. When I asked why, I was told the pump had been vandalized too many times, so it was removed. I was overcome with shock. Can you imagine the type of person that stoops to the level of vandalizing a poor little white air pump?

So off it was to another station, with a front right tire that was beginning to ride like a marshmallow. As I pulled in with peering eyes, there was a pump to be found directly adjacent to the building. It should be noted that this was a self serve station, so I didn't exactly expect maitre de service. I drove my car next to the pump, which was simply a long hose protruding from the side of the station. The problem was there was no gauge. Being a connoisseur on the subject, the best pump is one with a dial that selects the air pressure for your tire. This pump was just a hose.

I quickly went to the attendant to ask for a gauge to know how much air I would be putting in, as I've never enjoyed having a steel belted radial blow up in my face. Anyway, the attendant gave me a look as if I were a resident of the planet Mars, and told me to just fill the tire "until it looked good." That was a real professional answer, and I immediately had a great deal of respect for this guy. He was a definite graduate of the New England School of Gas Station Attendants. I then asked him exactly what a "good" tire looked like. This caught the attendant a bit off guard, who didn't really appreciate the question to begin with. It was here that I was about to throw in the towel, but I then had a vision of Roger Clemens facing the Mets at Yankee Stadium, and figured I could give it the old college try a third time around.

Luck came my way as I found a station in town with the traditional type of pump. Though it was red in color, it had the needed gauge to set for pressure, and it looked as if my problems were solved. But, as I drove closer panic began to set in as there was no hose to be found. The attendant at this station was a lot more blunt than the last attendant I spoke to; "Were sick and tired of getting our hoses stolen!" This fellow spoke like a true victim of crime, and seemed to take the whole thing rather personally. Apparently there has been a significant increase in the theft of hoses in the Commonwealth. This really makes you wonder what kind of world were living in.

Thus I had been defeated, and decided to leave for the Cape low on air, which is like leaving home without the American Express Card.

And all this brings up the question of the national air supply. Perhaps air pumps are really disappearing because of a shortage of air. However, if tires can take hot air, there should be an abundant supply after the recent political season.

by Arlene Surprenant Elementary-Junior High Meeting

All elementary and junior high parents are urged to attend an important meeting this Thursday, November 6, to discuss major educational goals for the 1987-1988 school year.

The meeting, slated for 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria, will include a discussion on reorganization plans, the extended kindergarten day, and the computer curriculum. Assistant Superintendent Henry Dembowski will lead the discussion.

This meeting will be followed by a public discussion with the Wilmington School Committee, tentatively set for Wednesday, November 19 at the Town Hall. On this evening, administrators are expected to give their recommendations.

Wilmington High School

High school seniors are reminded to check college and financial aid deadlines for those schools to which they are applying. Students should allow the guidance department two weeks to process applications.

Looking ahead: The guidance department will be sponsoring a Financial Aid Workshop on January 7, 1987 at 7 p.m. The Financial Aid Form (FAF) and the Financial Aid Booklet will be distributed that night. A second workshop will be held January 21.

Shawsheen

Elementary School

The next scheduled PAC meeting is November 7 at 9 a.m. in the Shawsheen School Cafeteria. Agenda items will include updates on school T-shirts and the craft fair slated for November 15. Principal Robert Coffill will also present his ideas for a monthly curriculum newsletter and seek volunteers.

All parents who wish to get involved are encouraged to attend what promises to be an informative meeting. Baby sitting and refreshments will be available.

The Wildwood PAC held its second meeting of the year on Monday afternoon, Oct. 3. Children's activities were discussed. Positive response to puppeteers for grades K-three, Mr. Wizard for grades four-six and a reptile show for all grades was received. The booking of these activities is a top priority of the committee. Parent education and support is also of interest to PAC members and possible speakers are being explored.

Bright and Beautiful fundraising orders can be returned any time. The last date for orders is November 10.

Shawsheen Tech

Congratulations to senior Patrice Silva for being named Shawsheen Tech's Homecoming Queen. Serving as princesses in her court were Jill Hamilton (senior), Denean Imbimbo (junior), Cheri Thurston (sophomore), and Allyson Mullin (freshman).

All five girls were nominated through their shops and edged out at least 19 other girls for their positions. They reigned at both the Homecoming Dance last Friday and the football game the next day. Retired Superintendent/Director Benjamin Wolk presented each girl with a floral bouquet.

Author's Note... If you have any school related news you would like to see in this column, please call Arlene Surprenant (658-5696) by Monday evenings or turn in information to the Town Crier office.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

As a resident of Wilmington and a teacher in a neighboring community I have been reading with interest the efforts of Wilmington teachers to negotiate a new contract. There are several items worth noting.

The school committee granted a 22 percent pay raise to Superintendent Robert Horan after one year on the job to bring him into parity with other school superintendents who have, incidentally been on the job longer and have proven they're worth the money.

Mr. Horan was given this raise after one school committee member criticized him for not keeping appointments, failing to get reports in on time, and not getting to work on time. Incredible! If my students had a record like this they'd be in serious danger of failing. Mr. Horan gets a hefty raise.

Teachers in Wilmington are asking to bring their salaries into parity with other communities. Presently teachers rank 19th out of 20. Only Lowell pays less. The school committee stated it was happy with the school system when they presented the superintendent with such a generous raise. They, therefore must be satisfied with the performance of the teachers.

I urge the school committee to put money where it will do the most good. Salaries for teachers who have proven their value with evaluations that are much more positive than the one given to Robert Horan.

Sincerely yours,
Bruce A. Dewire

Dear Larz:

I think people should know that the town of Wilmington has the second to lowest paid teachers. I am an eight grader at the North Intermediate School and I think the teachers are doing an awesome job. What people don't realize is our school has some good teachers.

What I figure is if we don't change something the teachers are either going to quit or they are going to go on a so-called "strike." They will still be in school, but they won't run extra things.

I'm sure you wouldn't go to work if there wasn't good pay; then why should the people who have the most important jobs?

Remember, they teach the future.

Signed,
Eric Pearlstein

The Humble Farmer

Afraid of answering machines

The telephone is a handy tool. It's hard to imagine anyone in business surviving without one.

This afternoon when I dialed a number a recorded voice said, "I realize that you don't like answering machines, but..."

At another number I reached a recording that said, "I apologize for the machine answering tape." A third whined, "I know you don't like these things any more than I do, but it's the only way you can leave your name and your number. I'll probably get back to you some time or another."

Even though I wasn't hungry, a little before noon I walked through the lilac bushes that separate my lawn from Gramp Wiley's trailer.

"Why do people feel they have to apologize for answering machines?" I asked as I pulled a chair up to the kitchen table.

Gramp quickly speared a pork chop and pushed the remaining one at me before he said, "Lots of old folks aren't used to them. People in business figure an apology smooths ruffled feathers."

"I'm not an old hen," I cried. "And that message is like a dentist telling you that it will only hurt a little when it really won't hurt at all."

"Older people take longer to get used to new inventions." You young folks use them for what they're worth and within a week take them for granted. I remember here tell your great, great uncle Joe Hilt wouldn't step on the wooden sidewalk when he came up here to the village--always jumped over it."

I said, "Wouldn't I sound foolish if I apologized for calling someone on the phone instead of going to see them in person?"

"Some older people won't even use phones," Gramp said as he poured some vinegar on the sliced cucumber. "They'll drive 10 miles and back to check on something that a 30-second phone call would handle. And when I was a kid, some people wouldn't think of trading their horse for a car."

"Educated people should be able to leave their names and numbers on answering machines," I pouted.

Gramp said, "Ah, within a certain class of educated older people, I would guess you might find a few snobs."

"You mean like the hippies who used to brag that they didn't have a TV."

My neighbor nodded solemnly. "Some rich old folks are likely to send you a letter boasting that they called but refused to listen to your recorded message. They've got time on their hands and aren't in a hurry to get you anyway. They figure that if you aren't there to take a message, you should have a maid or a secretary."

"But even if I had a maid I'd still have to call them back," I cried. "And the return call, which would certainly be a longer one, would be on my nickel. I certainly like to take all calls personally--to save myself the expense of calling people back, if for no other reason. But I don't feel I have to leave a defensive message. If anything, a person with an answering machine is providing an extra service for his friends and customers. You know you'll be called right back the minute that person comes into the home or office. It saves lots of fooling around."

Gramp said, "Some people have time to fool around."

"That reminds me of the greatest mystery of the summer, Gramp. This kind of thing must happen to everyone with an answering machine. A voice on mine says, 'Hello Robert Skoglund. This is Debby Kern. I was trying to get George but I got you instead and if you wouldn't mind I'd appreciate it if you'd call him and ask him to bring the guards which is hanging over the icebox and the pre-este which is on the side of the icebox and if you get a chance to give me a call I'd appreciate that. Thanks very much'."

Gramp said, "Who is Debby Kern?"

I said, "When I figure that out I'll probably learn who George is and why he left a pre-este on the side of the icebox."

The November 9, 1961 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

A swig of what was believed to be cough medicine, but was really oil of wintergreen nearly took the life of Frank Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson on November 1. Treated at St. John's Hospital by Dr. Gerald Fagan, Frank was transferred to Boston Floating Hospital where he was reportedly "on the road to recovery."

Pictured was Patrick Thibeau being worn into the U.S. Public Health Service by Town Clerk Esther Russell. Thibeau was to report for duty no later than December 11 at Radiological Laboratories in Rockville, Md.

Judy Pareseau of Pineridge Cleaners was pictured showing a customer how to operate the newly installed self-service Fashion Care machine - 25 cents per pound.

Elia's Country Store was offering pork chops for 33 cents a pound; Hi-Ho or Ritz Crackers, 33 cents and chuck roasts at .39 cents a pound.

Only 10 percent (32) of the people who said they were interested, turned out for a Civil Defense meeting for the discussion of fallout.

Station WGBH in Boston went up in smoke saying it would cost $1,500,000 to rebuild, donations were sought.

David Townely graduated from Essex Agricultural School.

Unicef collected $500 in Wilmington, so 50,000 children in developing countries could be protected from tuberculosis.

One hundred and seventy-eight employees and officials of Wilmington were scheduled to be inoculated as part of the jointly sponsored Board of Health/Civil Defense Program.

Miss Elene Farello announced that five WHS seniors would attend the N.E. University Seminar on radioisotopes on November 13. The students attending were Stephen Ridley, Peter Krey, Nancy Allen, Lorene Wolley and Daniel Gouvea with Dean Cail as alternate.

Wheelchair access at St. Dorothy's

A team of volunteers from the Wilmington Knights of Columbus built two wheelchair ramps at St. Dorothy's Church on Saturday, making it the first Catholic church in Wilmington to be wheelchair-accessible. One ramp is outside the church, the other on an inside stairway. The payoff was almost immediate. On Sunday, two people in wheelchairs came to the church. The material for the ramps was donated by Joseph Langone of Northeastern Development. There are plans in the works for a more permanent concrete ramp to be built in the spring. ST. JUDE, THANK YOU

Dear St. Jude:
Please take time out to listen.
Time out from helping so many of our friends.
Listen to people whose lives you have touched.
People who want very much to say thank you.
People whose families are more loving.
Whose hearts have been healed.
Whose bodies are stronger and don't hurt so.
Whose unsolvable problems got solved.
Whose impossible cases faded away with a prayer.
St. Jude, thank you so much.
Our dear God has given you so much of His love.
We are so grateful and
We promise to pray for others and
To let them know how dear and how good you are.
An't please know how much we love you.
Tell all of our family and friends in heaven
We love them too.
And, St. Jude. Pray for us

Companions are needed by Minuteman Home Care Corporation

There are two volunteer programs offered at Minuteman Home Care Corporation. One sponsored by the Executive Office of Elder Affairs requires at least 12 hours visiting a week with six hours used in training and transportation. A total 18 hours per week commitment. There is a monthly stipend of $125 and all mileage is reimbursed. You must be 60 years of age or older and have your own car to be eligible for the program.

The other program is totally volunteer. It is open to all ages and the time commitment is up to the individual. You will visit clients we assign and will be reimbursed for all mileage.

There is no "typical volunteer," rather, people who are young, old, employed or retired. People who want to reach out to someone else beyond their own circle of friends and relatives. Many with part-time jobs still have the desire to do something special during the week.

The pleasures which volunteers can receive may bring cheer to a lonely person are shared over and over. Because everyone realizes the benefit of more social contact for our isolated clients, the visitors in the companion program are highly valued. If interested, call Claire Giffiths at 862-6200 or 263-8720.

Tewksbury school news

Nat'l Education week at TJHS

National Education Week, a six day period set aside to observe and increase awareness of the American educational system will be held from November 16 to November 21 again this year. The Tewksbury Public Schools, in conjunction with the Forum subcommittee of the Tewksbury School Committee has invited the public to attend the many scheduled activities that will be held.

The Tewksbury Junior High School will open its doors to visitors during American Education Week. In order to accommodate parental and public visitation which the Junior High School offers during the day, the following schedule is suggested.

Tuesday, Nov. 18: parents of IGE students (grades five and six.).

Wednesday, Nov. 19: parents of seventh grade students.

Thursday, Nov. 20: parents of eighth grade students.

Friday, Nov. 21: parents unable to visit earlier in the week, and any other interested individuals or groups.

This schedule will allow for greater freedom of movement and particularly assist in proper parking facilities for everyone who plans on visiting.

The daily schedule will be:

8:50 to 9 a.m.: Registration in the library (coffee and reservations for lunch) see lunch cost below.

9 to 9:45 a.m.: Welcome and orientation by administration and guidance staff with a guided tour of this facility.

9:45 to 11:50 a.m.: Visits to third, fourth and part of fifth period class of your choice (IGE visits to classes).

11:50 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.: School lunch in the small cafeteria at a price of $1.42 for those who have made reservations.

12:15 to 12:40 p.m.: Question and answer period in the library.

12:40 to 2 p.m.: Visit to sixth and seventh period class of your choice (IGE visits continue).

2 p.m.: Departure prior to bus dismissal so as not to interfere with traffic on rotary.

There are a variety of events in the Tewksbury schools during American Education Week. Every citizen is extended an invitation to go and see the Tewksbury Schools. (Due to the nature of many of the programs conducted during this week, we request that pre-schoolers do not attend).

Open House for parent/teacher conferences on student progress, as indicated on the first report card, will be held on December 4, 1986 from 7 to 9 p.m. Conferences will be established on a first come, first served basis during those hours.

Open house in Tewks schools

Activities related to American Education will be held in Tewksbury's Public Schools during the school day. The purpose of these activities is to offer parents the opportunity to observe what is going on in the schools. American Education Week is November 17 through 21.

Following the issuance of report cards open house will be held in each school from 7 to 9 p.m. as follows:

High School, Tuesday, Nov. 25;
Junior High School, Thursday, Dec. 4; Loella F. Dewing School, Monday, Dec. 1; Louise D. Trahan School, Tuesday, Dec. 2; Heath Brook School, Tuesday, Dec. 9; North Street School, Thursday, Dec. 11.

The Elementary School Accreditation Program is underway in Wilmington. The three school chairpeople met recently with Ellen Smith, the field representative of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, to plan the calendar for the 1986-87 school year. The target date for the accrediting of elementary schools is October, 1987. From left, Judy Creedon, a teacher at the Shawsheen School, Martha Mahoney, chairman from the Shawsheen, Bob Arseneault, asst. principal of the Shawsheen, Ellen Smith, Jim Tildsley, chairman from the Woburn Street School and Florence Kelley, chairman from the Wildwood. Each school has its own self-evaluation committee.

Dear Parents:

At the present time, the newly elected School Improvement Council for the junior high school (including IGE) has been organized. This Council will have $8,140 to expend on supplemental materials this school year. At the earlier meeting in October, it was decided to survey all staff, administrators and parents relative to recommendations on how to spend these monies.

If you have any specific ideas on this matter, please send a note to the junior high school office with your ideas. At the meeting on November 13 at 7 p.m. in the library, School Improvement Council members will be receiving any input or support for ideas on expenditures of these funds.

The makeup of the Council for this school is:

Richard E. Griffin, TJHS principal and chairman.

Charles LaBella, representative of the school committee and member of the school committee.

Joseph Gill, parent elected to Council in September, 851-6494.

Lani Mathers, Parent elected to Council in September, 658-6205.

Elizabeth Kyle, Teacher elected to Council by staff of this school.

Sharlene Locker, Teacher elected to Council by staff of this school.

Kevin McArdle, Teacher elected to Council by staff of this school.

If at any time you have input, questions or suggestions, please contact any of the above people.

Sincerely,

Richard E. Griffin, principal
Junior High School

Conservation topic of Women's Club meeting

Conservation was the theme of the season's first Club Institute of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Joanne Haracz, district conservationist of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, addressed the group on the critical subject of "Water Quality Issues in Massachusetts."

State Representative David P. Magani, Middlesex District, spoke on "Conservation at the Local Level - There is a Place for You."

Steven Rideout of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service completed the morning program with a presentation on "Atlantic Salmon Restoration in the Connecticut River."

MSFWC Club Institute forums on timely topics have been held regularly since 1927 and are open free of charge to all members of federated women's clubs.

Nancy Beatty, president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, is giving special emphasis to conservation during her two year administration. Locally, the Wilmington

Women's Club is a member of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, the world's largest organization of women in volunteer service.

Income survey under way

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau will revisit selected area households beginning November 3 to conduct its Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP), Arthur G. Dukakis, Director of the Bureau's Boston Regional Office, announced recently.

SIPP is a major nationwide continuing survey introduced in the fall of 1983. It is one of the nation's largest household surveys with about 25,000 households participating.

The Census Bureau publishes periodic reports providing information from the survey. Subjects covered include the following:

- Jobs and earnings
- The economic effects of unemployment, disability, and retirement.
- How taxes affect personal spending
- Participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, and food stamps.

Information from SIPP helps policy makers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

Here are some facts based on SIPP interviews from the 1984 survey year (the sample size limits accurate reporting to national figures only):

- The median net worth of U.S. households was $32,670 in 1984. Median net worth ranged from $5,080 for households with monthly incomes under $900 to $123,470 for household with monthly incomes of $4,000 or more.

- Net worth was highest for householders aged 55 to 64. Their median wealth was $73,660 compared with $5,760 for householders under 35 years and $55,180 for those aged 75 and over.

- Married couple households had a median net worth of $50,120, about four times that of female-maintained households ($13,890) and five times that of male-maintained households ($9,880).

- White householder median net worth was $39,140; the figure for Hispanic householders was $4,190 and among Blacks, $3,400. Among married couples, the figures were $54,180 for White householders, $13,060 for Black householders, and $10,820 for Hispanic householders.

- Two-thirds of householders reported home ownership, and home equity accounted for 41 percent of total net worth. The median home equity was $40,600.

Information connected in SIPP is confidential by law. Interviewers have credentials identifying them as U.S. Census Bureau employees.

O'Neill to speak to Small Business Assoc.

Retiring Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr. will speak at the Smaller Business Association of New England, Inc. (SBANE) 48th Annual Meeting and Banquet on November 21. The 5:15 p.m. business meeting with dinner following will be held at the Westin Hotel, Boston. O'Neill will speak at approximately 8:30 p.m.

Cost of the program and banquet is $65.00 for SBANE members and non-members. For more information contact Phyllis Marcus at the SBANE office, 617/890-9070.

Founded in 1938, SBANE is the nation's oldest regional small business organization. Headquartered in Waltham, Mass., the organization provides its members with management education and legislative advocacy in Washington, D.C.

Gagnons visit tallest hotel

David John Gagnon of American Traveller Inc., Wilmington, with the souvenir certificate given by the Westin Stamford, the world's tallest hotel, during the recent ASTA convention held there. The Certificates were given to all delegates attending the 56th World Congress of the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA) held in Singapore from Sept. 21-26, 1986. Each certificate, incorporating a polaroid picture, certifies that the delegate has visited the world's tallest hotel, The Westin Stamford. The 226 metre-tall Westin Stamford received the Guinness Book of World Records citation when it officially opened on July 1, 1986. This record was previously held by another Westin property, The Westin Peachtree Plaza in Atlanta.

More than 4,000 ASTA delegates attended the congress held at Raffles City in Singapore. Named after the founder of Singapore, Sir Stamford Raffles, Raffles City is a US$700 million complex which comprises of the Westin Stamford and Westin Plaza hotels, a 42 story office tower, shopping mall and a convention centre.

The Raffles City Convention Centre is the largest in Singapore. With an area of 6,600 sq. metres the convention centre accommodates over 5,000 people. Among its "firsts" the convention centre boasts of the largest column-free ballroom in South East Asia with a seating capacity of 3,000 people. Its two ballrooms and 25 meeting rooms can be interconnected via close-circuit television and are outfitted with the latest audio-visual, recording, simultaneous translating and staging equipment.

For the week they were in Singapore, ASTA delegates were treated to a cornucopia of events which included tours of Singapore, a theme party hosted by Singapore Airlines at the Chinese Gardens, a "pasar malam" (a street night market of bargain stalls) and a special gala night at the Raffles City Convention Centre to close the conference.

The closing gala night hosted at the Westin Stamford and Westin Plaza Hotels featured seven separate buffets, offering the distinctive foods of famous destinations around the world...from the cosmopolitan cuisine of New York City to the spicy cooking of the Indonesian Islands. The meeting rooms were decorated to recreate the culinary flavour of seven cities.

With over 2,000 rooms, the Westin Stamford and Westin Plaza hotels are the largest hotels in Singapore. The hotels are managed by Westin Hotels and Resorts, which is a wholly-owned subsidiary of UAL, Inc., the parent company of United Airlines. Headquartered in Seattle, Washington, Westin is the oldest operating hotel management company in America and owns or operates over 55 hotels and resorts worldwide.

Nick Balog joins American College of Healthcare Executives

Nicholas A. Balog, vice president/director of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW) has obtained membership in the American College of Healthcare Executives. Balog participated in the recent convocation ceremonies in Toronto, Canada where the American College's activities were held in conjunction with the American Hospital Association's 85th Annual Convention.

The Health Center Director joins the professional society of more than 20,000 individuals throughout the United States. This professional organization has among its objectives to establish a standard of competence and to promote excellence in hospital and health administration, and to develop and promote standards of education and training for hospital and health administrators.

Balog has held nominee status in the American College of Healthcare Executives during the past three years. Throughout that time, he was required to demonstrate continuing education in his profession and to be active in community affairs. He recently successfully passed a day long oral and written examination, prerequisites for advancement in the professional organization. During the next five years, he will have to demonstrate continued participation in educational activities to be eligible for fellowship status.

A native of Connecticut, Balog joined RHCW in 1981 as the Health Center's vice president and director. Prior to coming to Massachusetts, Balog was assistant administrator at the Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center in Eastern Fairfield County, Connecticut, the largest Easter Seal affiliate of its kind in the country.

He holds a Master of Public Health Degree from Yale University's School of Medicine, Department of Public Health and Epidemiology and a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration from Bryant College, Smithfield, Rhode Island. Active in the Wilmington Rotary Club, he is currently President of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

All Aboard

Enter a magical world with a large realistic toy train layouts, old and new engines of all gauges stopping at busy stations, magnificent dollhouses on display, including the California Victorian, huge market place with great values, and the train miniatures contest for local hobbyist and collectors. Adult admission is $4, and children under 12 are admitted free with an adult. Located at Shriner's Auditorium, Fordham Road in Wilmington. Take I-93 to exit 39. Free parking.

Greenberg's Great Train, Dollhouse & Toy Show

All Aboard! For the magical world of model trains and miniatures at the shriner's Auditorium in Wilmington. Greenberg's Great Train, Dollhouse & Toy Show will be held on Saturday and Sunday, November 8 and 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Calling all model railroads, miniaturist, toy and toy train collectors, and layout operators for two exciting days of extravagant layouts and displays, helpful clinics, and a busy marketplace of quality merchandise offered at competitive prices.

First stop is "The Train Case," where collectors are displaying their oldest and most unusual trains, vying in the Greenberg's Great Train Contest.

Then on to the operating layouts. Classic Lionel trains from the 1920s and 1930s travel the large Suburban Layout. These standard Gauge beauties bring passengers and freight to towns with realistically lithographed, picturesque 1940s and 1950s dollhouses.

Next, enjoy the largest gauge on display: LGB #1 Gauge-European trains that have captured America's heart with their old-world charm. Albert Coughlin will bring a new foliage O Gauge layout.

Having problems with an inoperative engine? Want to check a purchase? See the repairman at the Test Track for expert advice.

S Gauge operators are sure to linger at the well-designed bristol Railroaders' modular layout; HO enthusiasts can study the snowy mountains and ski lift creatively designed by the South Shore Model Railway Club; the Northeast N-Trak Club displays a modular N Gauge layout. Other clubs participating include the Massachusetts Bay Railroad Enthusiasts and the Mystic Valley Railway Society.

Planning a holiday layout this year? take home hundreds of new ideas from the many layouts here. Whether it's Lionel Prewar, Postwar, HO, Z, Marx, LGB, American Flyer of N- Greenberg dealers have all the trains and accessories you'll need.

Miniature will admire the Holiday Room Box Contest entries created by skilled local hobbyists. In addition, there will be several magnificent dollhouses finished by nationwide N.A.M.E. club members.

Miniature clinics will be conducted by Heritage Houses in Stucco application, and the Bodines will show how to wire a dollhouse and make decorative miniature bows and silk roses. Make a last stop at Greenberg's Book and Gift Emporium for books and hobby gifts. Use Greenberg books to build train layouts, apply finishing doll houses

Rangers pound Cats

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

Methuen High School running back Dan Ford made the day a miserable one for the Wilmington High School defense Saturday as he burnt the winless Wildcats for four touchdowns and 244 yards rushing in leading the Rangers to a 35-8 romp at Nicholson Stadium.

Ford did all his damage on 17 carries and a little more than two quarters of football, helping to boost the Rangers into a 12-8 first quarter lead with runs of 57 and 25 yards.

Wilmington did put together an impressive first quarter drive that featured the pinpoint passing of junior quarterback Dan Woods and the running of Don Sullivan (14-61). Sullivan knotted the score briefly in the first quarter with a five yard touchdown scamper. Senior Tom Pote's provided the two point conversion with a nice run.

Things don't get any easier for the struggling Wildcats as they host Division Two leader Lowell (7-1-0) at Alumni Field Saturday.

Tourney time

Local Eastern Massachusetts Tournament action gets underway today (Nov. 5) with both the Wilmington High School field hockey girls and the Tewksbury High School soccer squad in opening round action.

Wilmington (14-3-1), second place finishers in the Small School division of the MVC, host Lynnfield (10-6-2) in a 2:30 p.m. start at Alumni Field.

The Tewksbury soccer squad (14-1-3), champions of their Small School division, hosts Dual County League runner-up Lincoln Sudbury at the Junior High School field. That tourney contest also has a 2:30 p.m. start.

Cutone scores

Former Wilmington High School star running back Tony Cutone recently helped the Harvard University football freshmen to a 24-7 victory over Bridgton Academy. Cutone scored a one yard touchdown to give Harvard a 21-0 lead early in the final period.

Wilmington pursuit

Wilmington High School defenders Al Ausiello (9) and John Rago (53) pursue the play in the 35-8 loss at Methuen Saturday. The winless Wildcats will have their hands full again this Saturday when they host conference leader Lowell at Alumni Field. Game time is 1:30.

Wilmington girls work hard, improve

Girls under 12

Although the team has lost more games that it has won, the Wilmington girls have worked hard and improved with every game.

The high scorer on the team is Alyssa Falzone. Alyssa combined lightning speed with the ability to kick well with either foot to beat the opponents' goalkeepers.

Jill Murphy is another high scorer who plays excellent position and has great passing skills.

Kim Lacquadara is another strong scoring threat. Kim has excellent soccer skills and is always making good passes. Another star forward is Sarah Callahan. Since Sarah was moved from fullback to wing, she has contributed with several perfect crosses and shots on goal.

One of those shots recently resulted in the only score of a victory over Burlington. Shannon Jepson is the other high scoring forward. Lately, Shannon has been cashing in on her breakaway speed to score important goals.

The midfielders also have excellent skills. Adrienne Fay leads the midfielders with her triple threat of thunderous kick, exceptional throw-in strength and her blazing speed.

Jaime Forgett is another standout who has excellent soccer fundamentals and somehow, always beats her opponents to the ball.

Christine Devlin's claims to fame are a powerful kick, great positional play and good passing ability.

Laura DeMarco's great dribbling, passing and kicking skills have been major contributions that have assisted several goals.

Lisa DiPerri has also used her superior dribbling and kicking talents to set up goals.

The fullbacks have quietly and effectively kept the ball in the opponents' end of the field for much of the season.

Jennifer MacDonald uses her superior soccer knowledge and strong kicking skills to make several important clearing passes each game.

Lynette Spano is another major contributor with good speed and great tackling and passing ability. And Erin Gilhooly combines excellent positional play, strong kicking ability and timely passing to keep the pressure off the goalies.

The netminding chores have been performed admirably by Donna Withers and Kristina Cullen. Both girls have made several important saves throughout the season.

Winning touch

Wilmington High School field hockey girls Cheryl Ward and Kirsten Galvin hope that some of Red Sox pitcher Bruce Hurst's winning touch rubs off before tourney time. Hurst was at Wilmington Ford last week signing autographs.

Letter to the sports editor

Cape Ann switch won't help WHS

Dear Rick:

The proposal by the Wilmington Athletic Department to move WHS athletic teams to the Cape Ann League will hurt the athletic program financially. The program will lose $15,000+ every other year: the gate receipts of the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game.

The Boosters and the Rotary Club will also lose sizeable income. The Booster Club will lose on the sale of programs and the concession stand. The traditional Rotary Club breakfast will also be lost.

It is doubtful that the Tewksbury athletic officials, with an eye on the Super Bowl each year, would be willing to give up the predetermined loss of 2.00 value points in the Super Bowl ratings. In a close division race, a negative 2.00 on the final game day drops a contender right out of that race (1976).

As I write this letter, Tewksbury is preparing for a game with Malden Catholic - a game that will probably determine the 1986 Super Bowl contenders.

Several factors have lessened Wilmington's competitive drive in the tough Merrimack Valley Conference. Listed are some of those factors that I feel have weakened our program. (Fuller discussion should take place at an open meeting).

- Loss of the Pop Warner program

- Decline in participation in the youth hockey program (down from a high of 750 boys nine years ago)

- The construction interruption

But, it is the football and ice hockey teams that are having the most problems; problems directly related to the factors listed above.

Our other teams are usually competitive. The field hockey team is pushing for first place. The boys soccer team is in second, cross-country is competitive (a 14th place finisher last week in the Northeast Meet). The '86 track and field team produced state champions; the tennis team had a state champion.

Therefore, I as a longtime WHS fan would not like to see our teams drop out of the MVC (This feeling is shared by most former athletes I talked with).

Also, I am sure that many of the Cape Ann teams will remember the beatings that were inflicted by the Fred Bellissimo teams. And we can well remember Fred's teams playing - his way - usually with only 15 players (large and small) going both ways.

I feel that WHS is having a tough few years in its' major sports, hockey and football, and that as the cycle moves, those teams will again be competitive and winning when the new rink and the new gym are ready for the athletes.

I hope that a well publicized public meeting will be held. A meeting supported and attended by old athletes and especially the parents of today's athletes and the parents of athletes in years to come.

Again the bottom line is $15,000+ and tradition.

Sincerely,
Gerry O'Reilly

McNaughton paces Holy Cross

The Holy Cross Lady Crusaders cross country squad prepares for the New England Championships to be held November 1, 1986. Following the New England, HC travels to Lehi (PA) for the NCAA Regional Qualifier and the ECAC Championships scheduled for November 15.

On Saturday, October 25, Holy Cross out ran eight opponents in capturing the Fitchburg Invitational. The Lady Crusaders (37 pts.) finished ahead of Springfield (2nd-40 pts), Tufts (3rd-57 pts.), Fitchburg (4th-109 pts.), Westfield State (5th-119 pts.) and Simmons (6th-189 pts.). Lowell, Salem State and Emmanuel also participated but did not record a team score.

Mary McNaughton (87', Wilmington,) was the first HC runner, as well as the overall winner with a time of 17:43.35. Her time set both a new meet and a course record.

TMHS scores ninth shutout

Tewksbury's field hockey squad scored its ninth shutout of the season last week in a 7-0 win over Greater Lowell. Leading the scoring for Tewksbury were Tricia Censullo and Sharon Hankewith with two goals apiece. Censullo also assisted on another goal.

Additional goals came from Lisa O'Neill, Chris Blake and Kim Dziadosz. Lynn Ploof and Chris Blake assisted on two of the goals.

Defensive players Karen Corbett, Jeanne Muise, Suzette Beaulieu and Lori Nunziato all made key interceptions to keep the ball in the offensive end for most of the game.

The Redmen lost, 2-0 to Wilmington in their last game of the season. Wilmington's left inner Ouellette gave the Wildcats the lead going into the halftime break. Karen Anderson scored the insurance goal early in the second half.

All of Tewksbury's offensive surges fell short and they came up scoreless. Playing well for Tewksbury were Chris Blake, Karen Corbett and Jeanne Muise.

Tewksbury finished the year with an 8-7-3 record. Chris Blake was high scorer with 10 goals and four assists. She was followed by Tricia Censullo (eight goals, two assists), Lynn Ploof (two goals, four assists), and Kim Dziadosz (three goals, two assists).

Lynn Ploof was voted as an All Conference player and Karen Corbett and Chris Blake were elected as All-Star players. The Redmen will lose the following seniors to graduation: Kerri Beaulieu, Chris Blake, Tricia Censullo, co-captain Karen Corbett, Traci Danner, Kim Dziadosz, Lori Nunziato, co-captain Lynne Ploof and Karen Toth.

Second teams

Wilmington Youth Soccer will be entering a second boys' under 16 team and a girls' under 16 team next spring in the M.Y.S.L. if enough boys and girls are interested.

To be eligible, a boy or girl must have been born by 1971 or later. If any boy is interested, he should call Kip Wheeler at 658-8879 or if any girl is interested, she should call John DeMarco at 658-5207 before November 16, 1986.

A date for tryouts will be determined after that date if enough interest is shown.

Pote caught from behind

Wildcat senior running back Tom Pote (35) is pulled down by the Methuen defense Saturday. The Wildcats lost, 35-8.

TMHS cross country

Girls finish season on high note

The Tewksbury High School girls' cross-country team finished its dual meet season with a convincing 20-40 victory over Wilmington High School. With a 6-3 record overall and a 5-3 record in the MVC, the girls had the best cross-country season of any TMHS girls team since 1978.

Wilmington's Kristin Palm, a competitive runner who has improved a great deal over the season, won the race over Tewksbury's 2.8 mile course. After Kristin, however, it was Tewksbury all the way.

Krissie Connor and Paula Torode were close behind Kristin, and they were followed by Sue McLaughlin, Jennifer Harmon and Joanne McNamara.

Breaking 20 minutes on the Tewksbury course is a major achievement, and the top four Tewksbury girls did so and ran their best times of the year. Jennifer Harmon topped her previous best by almost two minutes.

After the top five, Tewksbury was not finished yet. The rest of the team also ran best times. Kristin Conley grabbed eighth place, Amy DiGiorgio, Chrissy Frotten, Chrissy Juskiewicz and Justine Short took 10th through 13th, all with their best times of the season.

The Tewksbury girls all run so well and so close together that they could be a factor in the State Championship meet this Saturday.

The boys team also ran very well against Wilmington but, as has so often been the case this season, their efforts fell just a few points short of victory.

Bob Busch led the race the whole way with a fine 15:19 effort over the 2.8 miles. During the season Bob was beaten only twice by other runners in the MVC Small School division, and thus earned himself a spot on the MVC all-star team.

Right behind Busch came a tight contest between Dave Kelleher and Wilmington's Paul Maiella. Dave sprinted ahead during the last 300 yards and took second place. This finish was perhaps the most important of Dave's fine season, because placing second in this meet meant that he, too, was an MVC all-star.

Jeff Parsons, Tewksbury's third man, ran a great race, cutting over 30 seconds off his best time. Jeff took sixth, followed by four Wilmington runners. Those four sealed the victory for the Wildcats.

The junior varsity race provided some close competition up front. Only seven seconds separated the top four runners.

Tewksbury's Ben Tyrrel won the race with a time that was by far his personal best. Jim O'Callaghan also ran very well to take fourth. The JV's won the meet on the strength of a six, seven, eight, nine finish by Bill Erikson, Sean Downey, Kevin Kelley, and Tsuyoshi Fukuda.

As the Tewksbury boys and girls teams close out their dual meet season and look ahead to the states, they have much to be proud of.

Every boy and girl on the two teams made considerable improvement during the course of the season. Runners such as Ben Nichols, who cut his time from 19:28 in the first meet down to 17:03 in the last, and Jennifer Harmon, who went from 24:45 to 19:34, were perfect examples of what cross-country is all about.

Hard work and dedication bring results, and this was a hard-working and dedicated team.

Redmen ground
Malden Catholic

Redmen quarterback Jay Rideout hands the ball off to senior fullback Brian Aylward (9). Brian was an inspirational force in Tewksbury's 33-13 romp past Malden Catholic.

Woods
barks signals

Wilmington High School quarterback Dan Woods gets set to take the snap from center David Kelley (74) Saturday at Methuen. The winless Wildcats host Lowell Saturday afternoon.

Bentley coach posts 100th career victory

Sandy Thompson isn't likely to forget her 100th win as the varsity volleyball coach at Bentley College.

It occurred on Bentley's home court and came against her alma mater, Springfield College, in the finals of the Northeast-8 Conference Championships.

The 15-12, 15-18 victory gave the Falcons their second straight conference title and earned Thompson NE-8 Coach of the Year honors for the second consecutive year.

A Manhasset, N.Y., native, now living in Wilmington, Thompson has led the Falcons to a sensational 35-5 record this season (with one tournament remaining on the schedule).

In addition to winning the NE-8 tournament, her team was the regular season conference champion and won two other tournaments (Bentley and Bryant Invitational).

Thompson, in her fifth year at the helm, now sports a career mark of 104-54, a winning percentage of .658. Amazingly, the Falcons have set school records for victories and winning percentage every year under Thompson. During the last two seasons, Bentley has won 59 of 69 matches (.855).

A 1980 graduate of Springfield, Thompson also serves as director of recreation and coordinator of academic support services for the athletic department at Bentley.

Prior to coming to Bentley, Thompson was an assistant softball and girls' basketball coach at Burlington High School.

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD!

At JIM BOUDREAU'S, we will meet or beat any legitimate written estimate. Not only will we meet it, we will give you an additional 10% DISCOUNT.

BRAKES

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC

When your brakes aren't working, and you're headed for a wall, you might want to swear some. Maybe a lot.

But we can put a stop to that. Bring your car in (slowly, please) for a free brake inspection. If you need repairs, front and rear brake jobs include lifetime pads or shoes, resurfacing of drums or rotors, and repacking the wheel bearings. And we'll meet or beat any written estimate.

No Appointment

Quick off the ball

Senior defensive tackle Brian Donahue (78) has been quick off the ball throughout the season for the Tewksbury Redmen.

Britten pressure

TMHS defensive end Dan Britten (73) was a force Friday night with several pressures and a quarterback sack.

More WHS cheers

The Wilmington High School cheerleaders are still kicking up a storm for their favorite team.

Austin co-captain

A Tewksbury resident has been elected to serve as the co-captain of the varsity cross country team at Austin Preparatory School. Sean McDermott, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McDermott of Kearsage Street, is a four-year veteran of the school's varsity harriers.

McDermott, a senior at the local prep school, has been active in Austin's varsity winter track team and spring track team as well. Last year he was named an All-Star in the Catholic Central League Cross Country program. He is the secretary of the Austin Prep Student Council.

where the action is

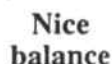

In fact, a partridge helped me fill my last deer tag.

Both states expect record deer harvests for 1986.

Wildcats Tom Pote (35) and Bob Labossiere (34) never quit despite the lopsided 35-8 score at Methuen Saturday.

Atlantic City

TMHS running back Brian Aylward has plenty of balance enroute to a good gain in recent MVC action. The 6-1 Redmen roll into Billerica Saturday looking for win number seven.

Seek new bids on low-income housing

by Arlene Hicks, Surprenant

D. Michael Hicks, architect for the eight low to moderate income homes slated to be scattered through town, told Wilmington Housing Authority members Monday the package is being rebid. Members were disappointed to learn the first time that no contractor had bid on the work, which includes placing modular homes on the parcels.

This is essentially the same package as before with a few minor adjustments, said Hicks. He added that because of a "very busy construction season," they are having difficulty getting a contractor for the job.

A notice will be placed in the Central Register this week and bids will be advertised November 12. Deadline for bidding will be the end of November, said Hicks.

WHA chairman Kevin McMillan told the Town Crier his board is encouraging local contractors to submit bids for the job. He suggests that bids or requests for further information be made directly to Hicks c/o Domenech and Hicks Inc., 155 Mass. Avenue in Boston.

Wilmington senior topics

Dinner tickets

Tickets to the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Annual Wilmington senior citizen dinner dance will be given out next Monday, November 10 starting at 9 a.m. The social will be held in the Elks Hall with the dinner, which is prepared by the Elks themselves and served by their wives served at 6:30 p.m. Please sign in when you arrive and check the proper block.

Thanks optometrists

Our thanks are extended optometrists David and Phillip Gendelman who donated the afternoon of October 28 to screen seniors for glaucoma. Forty-six seniors were tested, three of whom were detected as having glaucoma. They were referred to their doctors.

Fuel applications

Fuel applications are being made out at the Senior center, 15 School St. on appointment only. If you feel you may qualify, call the Center at 658-2258 or 657-7595. Any senior who qualifies for fuel assistance under the federal program also qualifies for up to $200 in oil burner cleaning, repairs or weatherization.

Art classes

The art teacher is a professional and comes to us with an excellent background in the art field. At the present time he is teaching day and evening classes. He can give us only the hours between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m. on Mondays. He specializes in sketching, oil and water painting. Call the center to reserve a place in the class. We have the name and telephone numbers of those who signed up before. We will call you.

Whist party November 10

The first whist party of November will be held in the Center Monday, November 10 starting at 1 p.m. Prizes for the whist are donated by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs. Prizes are given to the winners of the games. These are very popular socials and an excellent way to meet new friends while enjoying yourself.

Arts and crafts

The arts and crafts sessions are held in the Senior Center on Tuesdays and Thursdays. At the present time the seniors are busy working on projects for the Senior Fair of November 29. They do need a lot more hands to get them completed on time. Will you give some of your spare time to help them?

Dance classes

The dance class is coming along fine. The dancers are learning to become more professional on the floor through the teaching of Steve White. If you check the dance school ads in the paper, you will see that the dance teachers charge $35.00 for six weeks of instruction. Steve charges the same price for his adult classes. What a deal you get by being a senior citizen, $6.00 for six weeks. Any time you want to join the class, go on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30. Tell Steve you are a new student. He will teach you the steps.

Senior Fair Nov. 29

Don't forget our senior Fair is closing in, we need many craft items to fill as many of our large tables that we can. A cold winter is predicted, we will need many pairs of mittens, gloves, hats and scarfs for men, women and children in all sizes. Between 4-6 p.m. we will be serving a spaghetti supper. To top off the meal we will need many pastries. Also for the pastry table along with candies of all types.

Foster Balser hospitalized

Foster Balser is a patient at Choate Memorial Hospital. He has been serving as student monitor for the male students at the high school. Mr. Lynch would like another male senior to take the job until Foster can return. The job pays $6.50 an hour, five hours a day. Paid vacations, sick days and holiday. Call Mr. Lynch at the high school. If interested, employment would be immediate.

Arrests

While assigned to radar patrol around 7:30 Wednesday morning, Officers Miller and Richter arrested a Lowell man on drug charges. Donald J. Santosuosso, 22, of Queen Street, Lowell was charged with operating a motor vehicle with no license and possession of a class D substance, believed to be marijuana. He was taken directly to Woburn Court.

After stopping him on Route 62 Tuesday night, Officer Maureen LeGrand arrested Michael Pratt of Andover Street, Wilmington and charged him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. Auxiliary Officer Plumer assisted in the arrest.

Following an intensive investigation and the obtaining of an arrest warrant at Woburn Court, Juvenile Officer Bob Spencer arrested a local man on rape charges, Wednesday morning.

Francesco A. Pelligrino, 48, of 257 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington was charged with rape of a female under 16. After being booked at the station he was taken to Woburn Court to be arraigned on the charges. Pelligrino had his case continued for two weeks and was released on personal recognizance pending his next appearance in court.

Officer Joe Morgan assisted by Sgt. Palmer arrested Timothy Flaherty of Mystic Avenue, Wilmington on a warrant charging him with possession of marijuana. He was held overnight on $500 bail.

Early Friday morning Officer Frank Hancock arrested Michael Beatrice, 24 of Cross Street, Tewksbury charging him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He was bailed for a Friday court appearance.

Halloween night a number of youths were arrested on alcohol charges by a beefed up patrol force.

Shortly after eight o'clock four youths were arrested by the alcohol enforcement team at North and Middlesex Avenues. Charged with being minors in possession of alcohol were Robert Wolfson, 17, Brown Street, Ronald Mank, 19, South Street and Donald Murray, Jr., 17, Lloyd Road all of Tewksbury. Also arrested was Americo Catalano, 24 of Cedarcrest Road, Wilmington who was charged with procuring alcohol for minors.

At nine o'clock, Officer Robert Richter arrested two youths on alcohol charges at the Woburn Street School. Mark Barry, 17 of Newbury Avenue, No. Quincy and a juvenile male from Wilmington were charged with being minors in possession of alcohol.

Four local youths were arrested shortly after nine o'clock on Halloween night by the A team. Robert Lanzillo, 19 of Fairmeadow Road, David Buzzell, 19, of Marion Street, Scott Munro, 19 of Morse Avenue and a juvenile were all charged with underage possession of alcohol and were bailed for a Wednesday appearance in Woburn Court.

Early Saturday morning Officer Pat King arrested Kevin Kavanaugh, 20 of Adams Street charging him with underage possession of alcohol.

Robert Dale, 18 of Bellflower Road, Billerica was arrested early Sunday morning by Officer Frank Hancock. The officer charged Dale with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Around three o'clock Sunday morning Officer Robert Richter arrested a Somerville man for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. John O'Byrne of Sargent Street, Somerville was bailed for a Monday court appearance.
